

uhcl
THE SIGNAL

THIS WEEK IN NEWS

HURRICANE HARVEY 1 YEAR LATER

NEWS

One year after Hurricane Harvey, relief efforts still helping UHCL students

UHCL's Dean of Students Office continues to benefit from some of the efforts that were initially started last year to help students who were affected by Hurricane Harvey but now have evolved into general emergency preparedness efforts. Read Article

Dean of Students Office continues to maintain UHCL food pantry post-Harvey

A year after Hurricane Harvey hit Houston, the Dean of Students Office is continuing to maintain a food pantry that is assessable to members of the UHCL community. When the campus reopened after the hurricane, offices and organizations at the UHCL collaborated together for the Hawks Helping Hawks program, which sought out donations and volunteers for relief efforts. Read Article

Texas officials and BAHEP push for coastal barrier as preventative hurricane damage measure

The Bay Area Houston Economic Partnership is pushing to have a coastal barrier built along the Upper Texas Gulf Coast. The purpose of the barrier would be to protect the Galveston Bay area from future hurricanes that could severely damage the surrounding cities, and the industries there, such as its port system and ship channels. Read Article

THROWBACK: Tips on how to contribute to hurricane relief

THROWBACK: International students organize volunteer efforts after hurricane

FEATURES

'Harvey' film nears completion with upcoming September release

The upcoming film "Harvey" is in post-production and is being produced by Street Corner Films, a production company based in Houston. Read Article

THROWBACK: Poets share their stories of Hurricane Harvey

OPINIONS

Looking back at Harvey: UHCL community reflects on storm's impact

#UHCLStrong

The Signal asked the UHCL community at large to share their experiences of Harvey. Check out the submitted stories, photos, videos, artwork and more below. Read Stories

Reflecting on Harvey: The Signal staff shares personal stories of the storm

THROWBACK: Texans are not victims but survivors of Harvey

CARTOON: Army Corps of Engineers' Harvey recovery dream board

In the process of allocating the funds to flood mitigation projects, engineers proposed a variety of uses for the funds. Some of those early suggestions are pictured here on the office dry-erase board. See Cartoon

MULTIMEDIA

THROWBACK GALLERY: Hurricane Harvey delivers floodwaters to Houston area

While Hurricane Harvey did not hit Houston head on, the consistent bands of showers were enough to bring floodwaters throughout the area. From downtown Houston to Friendswood to Dickinson, the impact of Harvey was visibly noticeable. See Photos

INFOGRAPHIC: Items to have ready for hurricane season

A hurricane go-bag is something to help you be better prepared for hurricane season. Here is an example of the type of items to have in a hurricane go-bag. View Information

THROWBACK MAP: Hurricane Harvey's flooded areas in the Clear Lake Area

Hurricane Harvey makes landfall on the Texas coast at the end of August. It continued to dump billions of gallons of water on Texas for 117 hours. From Port Aransas to the Texas-Louisiana border it seemed that no one was exempt from this storm's wrath. See Map

Emergency contacts for UHCL Community

This contact list has various numbers, social media profiles, apps and websites that can aid you in your time of need for a hurricane or other natural disaster. It contains numbers not just for Houston and the UHCL Campus, but also that of the surrounding counties, state and national resources as well. View Information

PODCASTS

Reflecting on Harvey, coastal barrier, UHCL food pantry

Episode segments include reflecting on Hurricane Harvey, the proposed coastal barrier, UHCL food pantry and tips on hurricane preparedness. Listen Here